Emissions testing van moves

The emissions testing mobile van has moved from its location at the Belle Glade Municipal Civic Center.

The van can now be found at its old location, behind Shing Shing Restaurant, on Commerce Street in Belle Glade.

The testing site is open from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday and Thursday. Cars must be in line by 4 p.m. to be tested by 4:30 p.m. on those days. Fleet vehicles will be tested on Friday, January 15 from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Raider Rally

There will be a Raider Rally on Saturday, Jan. 16 to celebrate the Glades Central Raiders' winning the 1998 State 4A Football Championship.

A motorcycle will go through Belle Glade at 10 a.m. and the rally will be from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the football field following the motorcycle.

For additional information, please contact Carthina Mann, event-coordinator at 996-3230 or Glades Central High School.

ARC Golf Tourney is Saturday

The Glades Area Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) will hold its Annual Scramble Golf Tournament at the Belle Glade Municipal Golf Course, teeing off at 9 a.m. on Jan. 9.

Golfer registration begins at 8 a.m. and the course requests participants to call in their intention to play by Friday afternoon for handicapping.

The tournament, titled "Golfing the Glades '99" is hosted by Board President Steve Baumgartner and Tournament Co-Chairs Tommy Cone and Laura Hoard. Special events at the tournament include hole-in-one prizes at all per 3's, a hole-in-one 1999 Chevy Pick-up truck on #17, courtesy of Steve Moore Chevrolet, a Million Dollar Hole at #13. Door prize drawings will be awarded for golfing achievement, a special drawing will be held for Golfer's Treasure Chest, valued at over $100, and a complimentary barbecue with burgers, hot dogs and more.

Thief accidentally shoots partner during robbery

By Brenda Bunting
Editor

Two men who allegedly tried to rob a senior citizen might want to think twice about their chosen profession.

Det. Lee Sweet with the Belle Glade Police Department said Willie Lightburn Jr., 18, and Bobby Stokes, 19, broke into the home of Willie Lee Jackson, 62, at 10:30 a.m. on New Year's day. Det. Sweet said the men demanded money from Jackson and when he refused, Lightburn shot at the victim. The shot missed Mr. Jackson, but hit Lightburn in the thumb, causing both robbers to run from Mr. Jackson's home at 208 S.W. 6th Street. Lightburn and Stokes, who Det. Sweet says are also documented gang members, are in jail with no bond on charges of attempted first degree murder and home invasion with a weapon.

Young men at Youth Development Center live out life in play

By Debra Miller
Reporter

The young men at the Pahokee Youth Development Center spent two weeks putting together a play they presented to the staff at the facility on Wednesday.

But it didn't take a lot of acting talent, they just lived the life they knew before entering the center - a life full of drugs, alcohol and cigarette abuse.

The play, "Request of a Drug Addict" featured a handful of young men who recently graduated from the required drug abuse treatment program at the center.

The play centered around the addictive behavior of a 15 year-old whose parents come from a middle class neighborhood and were not able to see just how destructive the teenager's life was and where he was headed. The father was too busy working 12 hours a day and the mother felt she could only stop his behavior by having his father fill to him, however the young man dies of a heart attack.

Once again, parents are reminded to talk to their children about the effects of drugs and alcohol on their teenager's life.

According to the center, when people mix cocaine and alcohol consumption they are compounding the danger each drug poses and unknowingly forming a complex chemical experiment within their bodies.

At the National Institute of Drug Abuse (NIDA), researchers have found that the human liver combines cocaine and alcohol and manufactures a third substance, cocaine-ethylene, that intensifies cocaine's euphoric effects, while possibly increasing the risk of sudden death.

After the play, some of the young men said they had never done any kind of acting, but at some point in their life they were involved in some sort of drug or alcohol abuse and could act out the scenes realistically.

"I was there when a friend of mine died of a heroin overdose," one said. "He died right in front of me."

He began hanging out with his friends and what in society

"It's a noble profession," says new warden for South Bay's prison

By Debra Miller
Staff Reporter

When you think of the prison system, several things go through your head, but did you ever think of it as a small community?

That's how the new warden for the South Bay Correctional Facility sees it. John Hurley, who has been on the job for about two months, sees the prison system as a small town of 1250 men.

"The best way for people to understand how the system works is to think of it as a small town," said Mr. Hurley. "It's just that this town runs seven days a week, 24 hours a day and the 1250 inmates can't leave."

Mr. Hurley arrived at the facility after working for the federal prison system for 25 years. His last position as warden was at a federal prison in Florence, Colorado, which housed such prisoners as Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols, as well as the Unabomber Ted Kaczynski.

After retiring from the federal system he interviewed with several private facilities and felt Wackenhuus was his best option.

Mr. Hurley didn't plan to have a career with the prison system, it just worked out that way.

"After my stint in the mil-

tary and earning my degree in criminal justice, I returned home looking for a job. My dad told me they were hiring guards at the prison," said Mr. Hurley. "I went and applied for a job and 25 years later I was retiring from the system."

He says he believes that starting at the bottom as a correctional officer and working your way to the top gives you a real understanding of your employees and makes you appreciate the job that everyone else does.

"I feel you must start at the bottom in this type of system," said Mr. Hurley. "You need to go through the ranks to really understand the workings."

Marine Corp finds "a few good men" in the Glades

Kyle McDonald and Alfredo Treto will tell you straight up that the Marine Corp has changed their lives - for the better.

The 1997 graduates of Glades Day School admit they were headed in the wrong direction before joining the Corp this year. Now, the 19-year-olds say they have goals and big plans for their future.

Alfredo and Kyle spent part of this December as recruiters for the Marine Corp, visiting the local high schools and telling the students about their positive experiences in the service.

Kyle, the son of James and Cindy McDonald of Belle Glade, was a defensive end for the Glades Day School football team when they went to the state championship in 1996 and again when they were the

was eight years old.

Like Kyle, Alfredo says he "use to get into trouble a lot. But now, my parents are proud of me and I'm proud of myself."

He says the Marine Corp has taught him discipline and integrity. "That means doing the right thing even when nobody's watching," he said.

"I went into the military to make something of myself and I believe I will," he added.

Both young men were at Parris Island, South Carolina for boot camp and graduated December 4. They will now go on to LeJeune, North Carolina.

The Marine Corp has also brought out a talent in Alfredo that he didn't know he had. He won his platoon's "High Shooter" award. Out of 70 fellow Marines, he shot 231 out of a possible 250, to make high expert.

Alfredo says he plans to study engineering while in the Corps and eventually go into that field. "I want to do something with my life and experience new things," he said.

Kyle will be going on to Air Traffic Controller school in the future for 72 weeks of training.

"I see things differently now and believe I have the discipline to become whatever I want to be," he said.

tain number of prisoners in each section. There are two housing units for prisoners who refuse to abide by the rules and prisoners have a chance to move to other areas if they change their behavior and obey the rules.

Clothing is the standard uniform that is laundered at the facility. Medical and dental attention is provided to the inmates at the facility.

A maintenance and grounds department is needed for any repairs that must be made to the facility.

The grounds, which are beautifully kept, by the prisoners with clean cut lawns and flower gardens, are provided by the horticulture department. The prisoners are provided abuse treatment programs, which some must take before they are allowed to leave the facility, while others decide to take educational classes, computer classes and vocational education classes, and they are able to receive certifications.

"Many people can't understand the concept of providing recreational facilities to the prisoners," said Mr. Hurley. "If we don't provide a way for the men to work off their energy we would have more problems with their behavior."

Future plans for the facility, which has around 360 local full-time employees and 40 part-time employees, includes building a technical building which will manufacture a yet to be announced product.

The South Bay Corrections Institute is new to the area, only about two years old. The facility has become involved in the local community and has plans to become even more involved:

Recently, over the holidays, inmates provided handmade toys for the local Toys for Tots program.

Former newspaper employee found murdered in Kentucky

Keta W. Crowe, former graphic artist at The Sun newspaper was found the victim of a violent crime this morning, after Christmas in Mcbee, Kentucky.

The bodies of Ms. Crowe, 40, and Eddie J. Williams, 36, were found in Williams' home in Annville. Both reportedly died as a result of gunshot wounds to the head, although some information is conflicting.

Ms. Crowe worked for The Sun newspaper in the early 1990's and also at the Okeechobee News in the late 1980's.

"Keta was a wonderfully upbeat, friendly person," said Sun newspaper Editor Brenda Bunting. "We were shocked and saddened to hear of her violent death. She had many friends in the Glades and will be remembered as someone who always had a smile for everyone."

A Mt. Vernon, Ky. man, John W. Morris, 30, is charged in the murder of Ms. Crowe and Mr. Williams.

According to a story in the Jackson County Sun, Morris went into Mr. Williams' home and killed him and Ms. Crowe and then stole guns and Mr. Williams' Chevy Monte Carlo. He was apprehended in Lexington the same morning by police. Morris was reportedly at a BP station in north Lexington and had attempted to sell the clerk a shotgun. The clerk called police when he noticed blood on Morris' clothing and he was apprehended after a brief chase.

Services for Keta Crowe and Eddie Williams are held Wednesday, Dec. 30.

Danny Crowe, the son of Keta Crowe, said his mother and Williams were very good friends and the two had spent Christmas evening with him and his wife and their five month old daughter and Keta's daughter, Katrina Crowe.

He reported they had a wonderful Christmas evening and the last thing his mother said to him was that this was the best Christmas she had ever had.

Morris is charged with two counts of murder, one count of robbery and one count of theft by unlawful taking of over $300.

A Keta W. Crowe Memorial Fund has been set up. Anyone wishing to make contributions can send donations to P.O. Box 628, Mcbee, Kentucky, 40447.

This adorable baby is turning 40. Can you guess who he is?

evacuated.

Thanks to the tireless work of 6,000 firefighters from 46 states, no fire-related deaths were reported. Damage to homes and property was another issue, with preliminary damage totals topping half a billion dollars.

The dollars continued to add up during September and October when Hurricane Earl struck the panhandle, Hurricane Georges hit the Keys and Tropical Storm Mitch swept through South Florida.

Still, it might have been worse. There were 11 other storms that could have hit us this year.

So what happened? Why was the weather so violent during 1998? Some folks would argue that global warming is to blame while others suggest the combination of dying El Nino and an evolving La Niña are responsible.

I side with the latter, not the former. We are just now beginning to understand how changes in the sea-surface temperature in the Pacific Ocean can have such a dramatic effect on the world's weather.

Currently, those waters are cooler than normal, what experts call the La Niña. Those same experts think another El Nino may develop this fall.

It should make 1999 another very interesting year in the world of weather.

1998 was a great year for sports, but not for the weather

By Mike Lyons

Mark McGwire and Sammy Sosa hit home runs. David Wells pitched a perfect game, and Cal Ripken finally bagged the Daytona 500.

It was a great year for sports. In fact, Sports Illustrated magazine calls 1998 the best year ever, suggesting that the past 12 months was the most remarkable year of the 20th century.

It's a proposal that is bound to garner a fair share of arguments. And allow me to begin the discussion, not about sports, but about the weather over the past 12 months.

While 1998 was a great year for sports, it was an awful year for weather. In fact, 1998 may have been the worst year ever.

Statistically there can be no argument. Munich Re, the world's largest insurer, reports that violent weather cost the world a record $89 billion this year, more money than was lost in all of the 1980's from weather disasters.

Weather killed an estimated 32,000 people and displaced around 300 million, more than the population of the United States.

Most of those people lived in third-world countries where an afternoon thunderstorm can cause problems. Introduce a hurricane like Mitch into Central America or extensive flooding into Bangladesh and it is not surprising that thousands are dead.

Obviously we are better prepared for anything Mother Nature wants to throw at us. And in 1998, she tested our resolve.

It began in February with the deadliest tornado outbreak in Florida history. Forty-two people were killed on February 22 and 23 as a series of tornados swept through Central Florida.

These were not the puny twisters so common in the Sunshine State. No, these were monsters. The National Weather Service reports that several of the tornados produced winds in excess of 200 mph.

It was a hot, dry wind that blew through Florida during June and July as wildfires devoured a half million acres of Brevard County to the Panhandle. At one point, everyone in Flagler County had to be

Glades General installs new mammography system

In order to provide patients with optimal breast imaging and comfort with lower doses, Glades General Hospital has installed a new Mammomat 3000 mammography system for Siemens Medical Systems, Inc.

Opcomp, Siemens' exclusive automatic compression system for the Mammomat 3000, was designed to determine the precise degree of compression needed, based on individual breast characteristics to produce uniform tautness.

"The new mammography system will help Glades General provide the women of Glades with the best possible exams," said Dr. Richard Sander, Chief Radiologist. "It is designed to reduce the discomfort often associated with mammograms and it provides detailed images while actually reducing the dose a patient receives."

"Additionally, this Mammography System has stereotactic biopsy capability," said Larry West, Director of Radiology.

A stereotactic biopsy is a procedure that allows the physician to remove a small area of breast tissue previously viewed on a mammogram.

This procedure can sometimes eliminate the need for a more radical surgical procedure. After the tissue is removed, it is sent to the Laboratory Pathologist for a diagnosis (malignant vs. benign).

We are pleased to offer this special and unique capability to the women of our community," said Mr. Gene Faile, CEO.

For more information or to schedule an appointment, please call the Radiology Department at 561-996-6571 Extension 460.

Americans get "The Cholesterol Low Down"

(NAPSA)-According to the American Heart Association (AHA), if population and health trends remain the same, in ten years, 51 percent of American adults over age 20 will have total blood-cholesterol levels of 200 mg/dl or higher. This will put them at greater risk for heart disease.

To address this healthcare problem, a "Cholesterol Summit" made up of AHA experts on heart disease recently issued a call to action urging American adults and healthcare professionals to focus their efforts on lowering Americans' cholesterol levels and taking steps to bring levels to a healthy goal. The Cholesterol Summit was chaired by Martha Hill, R.N., Ph.D., immediate past president of the AHA.

"We have launched an intense national education campaign to increase awareness of high cholesterol and bring the numbers down," said Dr. Hill.

The campaign, The Cholesterol Low Down, was formed when the AHA teamed up with Parke-Davis and Pfizer, leaders in cholesterol lowering. It is based on the Summit experts' two-pronged call to action.

KFC awards grants to help find a cure for birth defects

Yukiko Sugi, PhD, and Mary Loeken, PhD, will receive a $60,000 and $54,000 grant, respectively, from KFC. Their findings will help to overcome the leading cause of infant death and a major cause for disabilities affecting more than 150,000 children each year.

Yukiko Sugi, PhD, is an assistant professor at the Medical University of South Carolina in Charleston. Sugi's research involves the Regulation of Early Endocardial Formation-the early stages of the embryo's heart formation. According to the March of Dimes, genetic and/or environmental disturbances may cause heart defects, which occur in up to one in every 125 live-born children accounting for a large portion of infant mortalities, miscarriages and stillbirths. Sugi hopes to pinpoint the cause of these malformations through her research and ultimately create treatment and preventative procedures.

Mary R. Loeken, PhD, is an assistant professor and senior investigator in the Division of Research at the Joslin Diabetes Center in Boston, Mass. The main focus in Loeken's research is to analyze the processes by which maternal diabetes causes fetal malformations. Women with diabetes have a two to five-fold increased risk of having a baby with birth defects. Neural Tube Defects (NTDs), such as spina bifida ("open spine"), are among the most common. Through this research, Loeken hopes to find a strategy that will eliminate birth defects caused by mothers with diabetes.

Colonel Harland Sanders, founder of KFC, was actively involved with the March of Dimes for many years. He took a personal interest in finding a cure for birth defects because one of his own grandchildren was born with a birth malformation. His dedication to the March of Dimes led KFC to be one of the organization's first corporate sponsors. When the Colonel died in 1980, KFC established a fund in his memory with the March of Dimes to help support the ongoing research.

Caller says Pahokee needs twice a week garbage pick up

"I'm calling about the city. I would like to know why they only pick up garbage once a week? It makes the neighborhood look so bad and it's a shame."

We're paying our taxes too and I feel like they should have a garbage run at least twice a week. I would like to know if I can get an answer as to why we can't have garbage pick-up twice a week, because in our neighborhood we are trying to make it look clean but it's making it look really bad with garbage all around.

There are also dogs running around loose and there should be some kind of control where they can find the owner for these dogs running loose.

Thank you."

Pahokee City Manager Ken Schenck responds: "In response to the garbage collection, we do have collection twice a week. Some residents' garbage is picked up on Tuesday and Friday, others on Wednesday and Saturday. If someone is not getting twice a week collection, please call city hall."

Also, the city does have a leash law and we can fine owners who let their dogs run loose. If any resident knows of someone violating that law, please let us know."

Unfortunately, most of the dogs running loose are wild and don't have owners we can contact. If someone has a problem they can contact the County Animal Control at 924-5656."

Education more important

"My husband and I both support the Glades with our time, our talents and financially when we can."

I was very proud, as was everyone else in the community, of the football team's accomplishment of winning the state championship. However, I do have a concern. I'm wondering, how many other people in the community who attended all those football games, who took the time off from work to travel to Gainesville, are playing as active a role in their child's or the kids in the community's academic aspect of life?

How many are concerned about the education, not just lip service, but actually doing something like spending time daily with their students, their kids, their neighbor's kids, helping them with reading, their homework?"

When is the community going to get behind these kids to help them to pass these standardized tests? There are tests coming up, the CTBS and the FCAT. We don't want to be on the critical list anymore, at least I don't."

How many of those people who took the time off from work to go to Gainesville are willing to volunteer time at their kid's schools or in the community schools if they don't have a kid in the school system.

I'm here for the kids and I do all I can for them and I'd like a little community support to rally around that. Athletics is great, but education is more important.

Thank you."

Caller agrees with last week's Speak Out comments

"I'm calling in reference to the Speak Out in last week's paper. I agree with the person who said that Glades Central has not been recognized properly as other schools probably would have been or as it should have been."

I think we should do more for them."

One or two more comments as well. I'm confused as to where The Sun as well as the Palm Beach Post got their attendance figures for the state game because it's very simple that Madison County had at least as many fans as you say was the total attendance. Perhaps that could be corrected as well."

And, once again congratulations to the best football team on "The Muck", the Glades Central Raiders."

Editor's note: This caller is correct about the number in attendance at the game. I later heard that the attendance was much higher than originally reported.

Police Chief Michael Miller had the following comments to make about Glades Central's win and our caller's concerns about the lack of support for the players:

"Congratulations to Glades Central High School for bringing home the 1998 State 4A Football Championship. It was my privilege to witness this great championship game and the entire community is proud of you."

Prior to the championship event, I was instructed by Mayor D. Bill Mathis to prepare proclamations to honor and congratulate Glades Central High School for their great accomplishment in 1998.

Upon my return from the championship game I was contacted by staff members from Glades Central High School and together we began to plan for "The Raider Rally" a celebration of the 1998 State Championship Football Season. The event will include a motorcycle through the City of Belle Glade and proclamation presented by the Mayor to the coaches and team.

Once again, congratulations to Glades Central High School, Dr. Greer, Coach Watson and the entire Raider Team!"

"SORRY, HE'S BUSY. HE'S WITH CBS NOW; THEN HE SWITCHES TO FOX AND TONIGHT AT NINE HE GOES TO ESPN."

UF-designed plant container slashes water consumption

By Aaron Hoover

University of Florida News

A University of Florida-designed plant container that traps and recycles water could help commercial nurseries solve a vexing problem: how to give plants enough water without exceeding limits on water consumption.

The "multiple pot box" not only greatly reduces water use, it also spurs faster plant growth than possible with traditional containers, said Dorota Hamon, a professor of agricultural and biological engineering and the designer of the container.

"The plants grow much faster" because they are never water-stressed, Prof. Hamon said.

Nurseries typically use two methods to water plants: micro-irrigation and overhead sprinklers. Micro-irrigation, or delivery of water in small pipes to individual plants, is efficient for large plants and trees, but systems are too elaborate and expensive to use for smaller plants. As a result, nurseries typically use sprinklers for plants in 1-to-5-gallon-sized pots, usually containing landscape ornamentals that are some of nurseries' biggest sellers.

The problem with the sprinklers is, much of the water falls in gaps between the pots, intentionally kept separated to encourage foliage growth, Prof. Hamon said. In Florida, water management districts require nurseries to obtain permits to use a limited amount of water, forcing them to struggle to balance the amount of water they consume with sufficient plant growth. Many other states also regulate nurseries' water consumption.

In Florida, "at the current levels of efficiency of overhead irrigation, the amount permitted is at or just below that sufficient to grow many of the most popular species in containers with normal rainfall patterns," said R.C. Beeson Jr., an associate professor in UF's Central Florida Research and Education Center in Sanford and a co-developer of the container.

Before water management districts began regulating nurseries' water consumption in the 1990s, it was estimated the average nursery used from 3.26 million to a little over 4 million gallons each year, making nurseries a high water user in the state, Prof. Beeson said.

To attack the problem, Prof. Hamon designed a water-trapping container that holds nine 1-gallon pots. Water that misses the pots hits the surface of the container, then flows into a chamber beneath the pots. There, an absorbent polyester material allows the plants to soak up the water as they need it. In the event of heavy rainfall, a hole permits excess water to escape. The container also is designed so forklifts can easily move it around.

Experiments with sweet viburnum, a common ornamental shrub, revealed the plants required 84 percent less irrigation than the industry standard with a traditional system, Prof. Hamon said. Not only that, the plants grew to marketable size in three months, half the time required for traditional systems, according to a paper the researchers published on their research in the March issue of the Journal of Environmental Horticulture.

"The experiment was conducted during months of relatively low rainfall in North Florida," the paper notes. "It is likely that during the rainy season, only the first irrigation may be necessary and the rest of needed water can be provided by the rain."

Tom Yenger, a professor in UF's department of environmental horticulture, G.W. Knox, an associate professor in UF's North Florida Research and Education Center, and Alan Smajstrla, a professor in the agricultural and biological engineering department, also were involved in the container's development and related research.

The research was funded by the Southwest Florida Water Management District, several nursery groups and with grants totaling $35,000 from the Horticultural Research Institute, the research division of the American Nursery & Landscape Association, a national trade association for the nursery industry.

A parent forum will be held on successful strategies for helping students to achieve in school.

Refreshments will be served.

South Florida Fair to hold Largest Vegetable Contest

The Palm Beach County Cooperative Extension Service and the South Florida Fair are sponsoring a Largest Vegetable Contest this year to recognize local vegetable growers. The contest is open to anyone growing vegetables including commercial growers, however, the vegetables entered must be grown by the exhibitor.

The largest Vegetable Contest, which is held annually on opening day of the South Florida Fair, has six-prize categories ranging from $25 to $200 for adults 18 years and up and youth under 18 years. Twenty-five common vegetables, including some tropical vegetables are eligible for entries.

To enter, bring your vegetables to the fairgrounds on Friday, Jan. 15, opening day, between 10 a.m. and noon and take the vegetable to Building 5, which is the Agriculture Building. There you can fill out the registration form, have the vegetable weighed and at noon the winners will be announced.

The winners will be determined by multiplying the weight of a specimen in ounces by the points per ounce with the largest score being the top winner. No more than one prize, however, can be awarded to a person.

The winning vegetables will be on display in Building 5 at the South Florida Fair during the course of the Fair from Friday, January 15, through Sunday, Jan. 17.

For information contact the Fair at 793-0333 or the Palm Beach County Cooperative Extension Service at 233-1750.

Alpha Awards are Thursday night

Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. is sponsoring the "Alpha Awards", an educational fundraiser/awards dinner on Friday, Jan. 8 at the Marriott Hotel in Palm Beach Gardens.

Activities will begin with a reception at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. with singing, poetry, and a dance tribute honoring the 1999 "Alpha Award Recipients." The keynote speaker, Congressman Alcee Hastings, will address "The Importance of Positioning Oneself for Opportunities in the New Millennium."

To reserve a table, call John Collins, co-chairman, at 561-684-3039 or to purchase individual tickets, contact Ticket Master at 966-3309.

GED test offered

The GED test will be given at Glades Central Community High School on January 12, 13, and 14, 1999 at 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Adults should register in the Community School office before Jan. 11.

For more information contact the individual centers.

tion president himself.

"Since 1986, it has been my privilege to have worked with Sonny—he is remarkably durable in a business that is tough to be in—maybe more so today than in years past. Sonny is someone you can always depend on and through his career with INI has contributed in many different ways...each time the company gave him an assignment he always responded in a positive way and gave it his best."

"Over the years, in my position with the company I have always appreciated his opinions on numerous subjects and his input in new projects the company might be trying...and his wisdom of many years in the business," Mr. Hitt said.

Mr. Stalls was the publisher of the Clewiston News, Glades County Democrat, Belle Glade/Pahokee Herald/Observer (forerunner of the present-day Sun) and Caloosa Belle during the 1960s and 1970s.

He owned and operated a commercial printing business for a brief period before joining INI's printing operation in the mid-1980s.

Former Glades publisher retires

Former Glades area newspaper publisher S. H. "Sonny" Stalls recently retired from his position as sales manager for Sunshine Newspaper Printing in Lake Placid, a division of Independent Newspapers of Florida.

A retirement party was held recently in Lake Placid in Mr. Stalls' honor and was attended by co-workers and former colleagues from the newspaper industry across Florida as well as a number of local public officials.

Independent Newspapers,

Inc. Florida Division president Richard Hitt noted Mr. Stalls' 50 years in the newspaper business and his 15 years with INI and the value of his experience in the business in his contributions to the company.

"I first met Sonny at a Florida Press Association convention many years ago. He was very active in FPA for many years and served as president—that was back when being president was a lot harder because there was not as big a role as today," said Mr. Hitt; a former Florida Press Association

Ladies Club feed elderly on New Years Day

The Essence Unique Ladies Club, in conjunction with the Greater New Hope Missionary Baptist Church, served the community of Pahokee, on New Years Day, with a dinner. The dinners were delivered by the Essence to the elderly, sick and shut-ins of the Pahokee community.

The event takes place every year to provide a home cooked meal to those who cannot provide for themselves. The group would like to thank the Greater New Hope Missionary Baptist Church for their help in making this day a success. Juanita D. Maybin is the president of the club and Shaunda Brown is the reporter.

Sority Christmas Celebration

The Sority sisters of Xi Zeta Mu held their December monthly meeting and Christmas social at the home of Club Sponsor Jane Evans on Sunday, Dec. 6.

Following the business meeting a beautiful dinner was enjoyed by all.

Boating safety means preventing hypothermia

As colder weather sets in across Florida, the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) is warning boaters about a silent killer: hypothermia.

Hypothermia is a severe reduction in body temperature which results when body heat is lost faster than it is replaced. It frequently causes victims to lose consciousness and drown.

Capt. Paul Ouellette, GFC's boating safety coordinator said an unusually high number of Florida's boating fatalities occur during the cooler months of the year.

Most of these are simple falls overboard from small fishing or hunting boats. Some of these deaths could have been prevented if simple precautions were taken against hypothermia.

"Water doesn't have to be cold or icy to cause hypothermia. It just has to be cooler than the victim's body temperature," Mr. Ouellette said.

The most effective precaution against both drowning and hypothermia is to wear a personal flotation device (PFD) when boating.

A PFD can keep your head out of water and provide your body with some insulation from the cold water."

Mr. Ouellette recommends that persons involved in boating during cool weather should invest in a Type V full-body survival suit or a Type III float coat.

These are personal flotation devices that offer essential protection against heat loss in especially heat loss in especially heat loss areas, including the head, chest and groin.

"The law does not require everyone to wear a life jacket, but rather have enough on board for all occupants," Mr. Ouellette said. "We hope boaters realize they might be able to prevent a tragedy simply by wearing life jackets."

Belle Glade.

The couple plan to marry on Oct. 9 at the First United Methodist Church in Pahokee in a double ring ceremony.

The bride-elect is a 1994-graduate of Glades Day School and is attending Florida

Atlantic University. She is employed at the City of Belle Glade. The groom-elect is a 1995 graduate of Glades Day School and is attending Palm Beach Community College. He is employed at Lake Welding Supplies.

Sority Christmas Celebration

The highlight of the evening was the revealing of each member's secret sister for the past year.

Karen Corbin entertained the group by playing a variety of Christmas Carols on the piano.

Those in attendance were:

Florence Acree, Sandra Chamberle, Merelyn Cochran, Karen Corbin, Laura Mae Einfinger, Jane Evans, Janice Goforth, Judy McMillan, Linda McMillan, Laverne Motes, Sara Nell Phillips, Laurel Tarr and Greadie York.

The agency established these hunts to provide quality Osceola turkey hunting opportunities with low hunter intensity.

A special opportunity turkey hunt will take place on the Ft. Wilderness Area in Indian River County. Three hunts with five hunters per hunt on 20,888 acres will be available for $50.

A non-refundable application fee ($5 for one person, $10 for a group of two) must accompany each special opportunity hunt application. There are no exceptions.

Applications available soon for turkey quota hunt

By Matt Alston and Bonnie Scruggs

Happy New Year! We would like to welcome everyone back from the Christmas holidays and hope you had a nice break.

Now it's time to hit the books once again. Next week is the last for the first semester and students in grades 7-12 will be buckling down for semester exams. The exams start Jan. 12 and will end on the 15th. School will be dismissed at 12 noon Wednesday through Friday, Jan. 13-15, in order for students to be allotted time to study.

Residents age 65 or older, certified totally and permanently disabled, in the armed forces, stationed out of state and home on leave for 30 days or less and children under age 16 are not exempt from special opportunity permit fees.

Lifetime sportsman's license, lifetime hunting license, and five year hunting license holders who purchased their license after July 1 are not exempt from special opportunity permit fees.

Hunters who purchased a lifetime sportsman's, lifetime hunting or five year hunting license before July 1 are exempt from special opportunity hunting fees.

The agency established these hunts to provide quality Osceola turkey hunting opportunities with low hunter intensity.

A special opportunity turkey hunt will take place on the Ft. Drum Wildlife Management Area in Indian River County. Three hunts with five hunters per hunt on 20,858 acres will be available for $50.

A non-refundable application fee ($5 for one person, $10 for a group of two) must accompany each special opportunity hunt application. There are no exceptions.

Special opportunity spring turkey hunt applications are available from all GFC regional offices.

Sportsmen can call the GFC Quota Hunt office at 1-800-488-8573 to request an application.

Sportsmen who want to be among the first hunters in the woods during Florida's spring turkey hunting can pick up applications.

Spring turkey applications will be available from Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) offices and tax collectors' offices and are not available from sub-agents.

Prospective quota hunters must submit a spring turkey application to the GFC's quota hunt office in Tallahassee, Jan. 11 through Jan. 20.

The GFC will accept applications via a postal delivery service only and will not accept any applications before Jan. 11. After the random drawing, the GFC will issue any remaining permits on a first-come, first-served basis.

Turkey hunters on most public wildlife management areas and private land do not need a spring turkey quota hunt permit. The GFC is also offering a new hunting concept called special opportunity hunts.

Ladies Club feed elderly on New Years Day

The Essence Unique Ladies Club, in conjunction with the Greater New Hope Missionary Baptist Church, served the community of Pahokee, on New Years Day, with a dinner.

The dinners were delivered by the Essence to the elderly, sick and shut-ins of the Pahokee community.

The event takes place every year to provide a home cooked meal to those who cannot provide for themselves. The group would like to thank the Greater New Hope Missionary Baptist Church for their help in making this a success. Juanita D. Maybin is the president of the club and Shanda Brown is the reporter.

Society Christmas Celebration

The Society sisters of Xi Zeta Mu held their December monthly meeting and Christmas social at the home of Club Sponsor Jane Evans on Sunday, Dec. 6.

Following the business meeting a beautiful dinner was enjoyed by all.

Boating safety means preventing hypothermia

As colder weather sets in across Florida, the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) is warning boaters about a silent killer: hypothermia.

Hypothermia is a severe reduction in body temperature which results when body heat is lost faster than it is replaced. It frequently causes victims to lose consciousness and drown.

Capt. Paul Ouellette, GFC's boating safety coordinator said an unusually high number of Florida's boating fatalities occur during the cooler months of the year.

Most of these are simple falls overboard from small fishing or hunting boats. Some of these deaths could have been prevented if simple precautions were taken against hypothermia.

"Water doesn't have to be cold or icy to cause hypothermia. It just has to be cooler than the victim's body temperature," Mr. Ouellette said.

The most effective precaution against both drowning and hypothermia is to wear a personal flotation device (PFD) when boating.

A PFD can keep your head out of water and provide your body with some insulation from the cold water.

Mr. Ouellette recommends that persons involved in boating during cool weather should invest in a Type V full-body survival suit or a Type III float coat.

These are personal flotation devices that offer essential protection against heat loss in especially vulnerable areas, including the head, chest and groin.

"The law does not require everyone to wear a life jacket, but rather have enough on board for all occupants," Mr. Ouellette said. "We hope boaters realize they might be able to prevent a tragedy simply by wearing life jackets."

The couple plan to marry on Oct. 9 at the First United Methodist Church in Pahokee in a double ring ceremony.

Supplies.

Atlantic University. She is employed at the City of Belle Glade. The groom-elect is a 1995 graduate of Glades Day School and is attending Palm Beach Community College. He is employed at Lake Welding Supplies.

Special Thanks

BIG A. Mr. Vereen, better known as BIG A. Seldom do we realize the importance of small deeds. Or what degree of greatness unnoticed kindness leads. The Raider Football Team wants to personally thank you for taking the time to travel to all the games both home and away, taking pictures of the team, fans and families. You have made it possible for us to read The Sun newspaper on Thursdays to see the highlights.

BIG A. You are like a big brother and a father to some of us. You have supported us financially. You have given us rides home after the games when there was no one to take us home. You have fed us when we were hungry. But most of all, BIG A, you gave us words of wisdom, always willing to help.

BIG A, some of the team members just want to thank you in a very special way. You're our HERO. Everywhere we go we see you carrying your camera with you, taking pictures of children, football players, you even surprised us at the Muck Bowl Banquet.

BIG A, we don't know how to repay you, but we want to thank God for sending you to Glades Central. You even loaned your pictures to the school for their school newspaper.

BIG A, friendship is a golden chain, the links are friends so dear, and like a rare and precious jewel, you're now our #1 Raider Fan. Just keep on taking pictures and doing what you do best.

Smile you're on Candid Camera

District records excessive rainfall in Northern Palm Beach County

The South Florida Water Management District reports its rainfall gauge in northern Palm Beach County recorded 31.09 inches of rain in a 9-hour period beginning at 2 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 2.

The gauge is located at the District's S-44 water control structure on the C-17 canal which discharges into the Intracoastal Waterway.

The structure is located along Alternate A-1-A one-half mile north of Northlake Boulevard. The C-17 is the primary canal for handling runoff from the C-17 basin.

This unusually heavy rainfall is responsible for extensive street and home flooding that continues to impact a tightly defined section of the northern part of the county in an area along both sides of I-95 from PGA Boulevard to the north and south to 45th Street.

The rainfall flared up without warning overnight along an old frontal boundary as a strong low pressure system developed over the southern U.S.

The frontal boundary stalled over northern Palm Beach County with a particularly heavy cell dumping excessive rainfall in one area.

At 2:30 a.m., with the first indication of heavy rain, the District began opening the two flood control gates at S-44.

Within an hour and following standard operating procedures the gates were opened wider. At 5 a.m. the gates were opened as wide as possible to allow for the additional rainfall and runoff. The gates will remain in the fully open position as long as necessary.

Residents in the area can expect for relief to come slowly. The District is prepared to do all it can to help move additional water from the impacted area.

However, this will depend on the ability of the C-17 canal to handle increased runoff from those areas. Until conditions improve, the C-17 has no additional storage capacity.

For the District to allow discharges into the C-17 from other areas would only increase the likelihood of flooding for other areas not currently impacted and would be of little benefit to areas already flooded.
